

Sandi L. Campbell,
Director
Corporate Development and Leadership

As the Director of Corporate Development and Leadership for Results Continuum Inc., a Canadian consulting, training, development and human resources company that works with teams and business leaders, Sandi Campbell oversees the development of the company's first national conference and is a facilitator for a range of programs, from training to team building. Sandi also provides strategic planning and business development consulting through the Business Mentoring program, and develops business golf programs for executive women.

Sandi is a project management specialist who brings over twenty years of experience in business development and strategic planning to Results Continuum's broad base of over 250 clients. Sandi developed her business expertise as one of very few women in management in the construction, plumbing and heating, and shipping industries. Sandi experienced a rapid career trajectory at a young age, culminating in her position as general manager of a construction company. After helping a series of companies develop their businesses from the ground up, she elected to leave the corporate world to create and develop her own start-up business. This unique career path has now led Sandi to Results Continuum with a clear understanding of business dynamics, leadership, performance management, communication and team building.

Sandi is Conference Director of the first Women in Business and Leadership Conference in Canada. This conference, presented by Results Continuum, is designed to provide a new forum for female CEO's, managers and entrepreneurs to advance their careers or grow their business. Sandi herself has worn a number of these hats and brings extensive event coordination and management experience to the role.

Sandi's event experience is directly related to her other passion, her entrepreneurial venture – Gogirlgolf. Her company celebrates and grows the game of golf for women through skills development programs, workshops and golf related events. Sandi creates golf clinics and designs and provides custom group programs and business golf workshops for corporate women.

Sandi has always been actively involved in her community and has held a number of Board positions with local and national business and trade associations. She is a Business Mentor for the local Women's Employment Mentoring Program and in 2008 received the YWCA's Woman of Distinction Award for Trades, Professionals and Entrepreneurs. She is also a member of MPI (Meeting Professionals International) and is involved in their education committee.

To learn more, please contact us.

905.933.7510

Sandi@resultscontinuum.com

resultscontinuum.com